Business Overview and Discussion of Operations

The Company was initially focussed on the sales and distribution of products and services for the psychedelic industry and was invested in two businesses, PBM (directly) up to May 2025 and PsyLabs (indirectly) up to October 2024. The Company retains sales and distribution rights for all products and services developed and offered by PsyLabs with the intention of creating a marketplace therefor in the psychedelics industry, as well as the royalty entitlements described above.

As described above, on November 21, 2025, the Company entered into the Amalgamation Agreement with GoldCoast and Psyence Therapeutics. GoldCoast’s sole material asset consists of its application for a reconnaissance (exploration) licence with the Minerals Commission of Ghana. GoldCoast has applied for such exploration licence to conduct shallow-water mineral exploration off the coast of Ghana in the Atlantic Ocean (the “GoldCoast Project”). The proposed licence area covers a nearshore marine tract prospective for alluvial and marine placer gold and is the pending principal property of GoldCoast. The Company intends to complete a share consolidation prior to closing the proposed GoldCoast Amalgamation so that the value per share after consolidation corresponds to the issue price of GoldCoast's most recent private placement financing. The proposed GoldCoast Amalgamation constituted a "Change of Business" of the Company as contemplated under Policy 8 – Fundamental Changes and Changes of Business of the CSE. Trading in the Company's common shares resumed trading on August 10, 2026 after all CSE conditions for the Change of Business have been satisfied and the transaction, being the Amalgamation, has closed.

Management’s Discussion and Analysis

For the 3-month period ended June 30, 2026, operating expenses comprising sales and marketing, research and development, general and administrative, professional fees and consulting and depreciation and amortization were down compared to the same periods last year. This was primarily due to the divestment of PBM and PsyLabs during the period.

Total assets at quarter end June 30, 2026

Total assets for the period were $727,025 and comprised predominantly of cash and cash equivalents of $343,972, loan receivable from former GoldCoast Resource Corp. of $372,960 and other receivables of $10,093.

Liquidity

Since incorporation, the operations have been solely financed from the issuance of equity. The Company's main use for liquidity is to fund scientific research, clinical studies, product development and manufacturing, salaries and professional and consulting fees. The ability to fund operations and to make planned cash flows are subject to prevailing economic conditions, regulatory and financial, business, and other factors, some of which are beyond the Company's control.

As at June 30, 2026 the Company had cash balances of $343,972 and positive working capital of $594,006. Working capital represents the excess of current assets over current liabilities. Accounts payable and accrued liabilities have contractual maturity dates within one year. All significant contractual obligations and commitments are disclosed under Discussion of operations above and there are no other significant obligations maturing in the short term. The Company believes that it will be able to fund operations and significant projects within the next 12 months from the available cash and cash equivalents without raising additional financing.

The Company's current expenditure obligations are primarily for working capital purposes. The Company expects to continue funding projects with available cash and cash equivalents, and therefore, is subject to risks including, but not limited to, an inability to raise additional funds through the issuance of equity, debt instruments or similar means of financing to support the Company's continued development, including capital expenditure requirements, operating requirements and to meet its liabilities and commitments at they become due.

The Company has experienced operating losses and cash outflows from operations since incorporation and by nature of its business, will require ongoing financing for working capital purposes. The Company's ability to access both public and private capital is dependant upon, among other things, general and sectoral market conditions and the capital markets generally, market perceptions about the Company and its business operations, and the trading prices of the Company's securities from time to time.

The Company's primary capital needs are funds for working capital purposes. These activities include staffing, and administrative costs.

Off Balance Sheet Arrangements

The Company has not had any off-balance sheet arrangements from the date of its incorporation to the date of this MD&A.

Financial Instruments and Other Instruments

In the normal course of business, the Company is exposed to a variety of financial risks: credit risk, liquidity risk, foreign exchange risk and interest rate risk. These financial risks are subject to normal credit standards, financial controls, risk management as well as monitoring. The Company’s Board of Directors has overall responsibility for the establishment and oversight of the Company’s risk management framework.

Credit risk

Credit risk arises from cash and cash equivalents, restricted cash, other receivables and loan to joint venture. The maximum exposure to credit risk is equal to the carrying value of the financial assets. The objective of managing counterparty credit risk is to prevent losses on financial assets. The Company minimizes the credit risk of cash by depositing with only reputable financial institutions. The Company also assesses the credit quality of counterparties, taking into account their financial position, past experience and other factors.

Cash consists of bank balances and an amount held in trust by a brokerage firm as security for foreign currency exchanges. Other receivables mainly consist of federal sales tax credits.

Liquidity risk

Liquidity risk is the risk that the Company will not be able to meet its financial obligations as they fall due.

As at June 30, 2026, the Company’s financial liabilities consist of account payable and accrued liabilities.

The Company manages liquidity risk through an ongoing review of future commitments and cash balances available. Historically, the Company’s main source of funding has been the issuance of shares for cash, primarily through private placements. The Company’s access to financing is always uncertain. There can be no assurance of continued access to significant equity or debt funding.

The following table illustrates the contractual maturities of financial liabilities as at June 30, 2026:

Financial Instrument Maturity ($)	Carrying amount	Contractual cash flows	Less than 1 year	Between 1 and 3 years
Accounts payable and accrued liabilities	133,019	133,019	133,019	-
Total	133,019	133,019	133,019	-

Foreign exchange risk

Foreign currency risk is the risk that the fair values of future cash flows of a financial instrument will fluctuate because they are denominated in currencies that differ from the respective functional currency.

The Company operates internationally and is exposed to foreign exchange risk from the USD. Foreign exchange risk arises from transactions as well as recognized financial assets and liabilities denominated in foreign currencies.

A 10% adverse change in exchange rate would have resulted in a loss of $37,734 as at June 30, 2026.

Interest rate risk

Interest rate risk is the risk that the fair value of future cash flows of a financial instrument will fluctuate because of changes in market interest rates. The Company has no significant interest-bearing assets or liabilities and therefore its income and operating cash flows are substantially independent of changes in market interest rates. Management therefore regards liquidity risk to be low.

Capital management

The Company’s objectives when managing its capital are to safeguard its ability to continue as a going concern, to meet its capital expenditures for its continued operations, and to maintain a flexible capital structure which optimizes the cost of capital within a framework of acceptable risk. The Company manages its capital structure and adjusts it in light of changes in economic conditions and the risk characteristics of the underlying assets. To maintain or adjust its capital structure, the Company may issue new common shares, issue debt, or acquire or dispose of assets. The Company is not subject to externally imposed capital requirements.

Management reviews its capital management approach on an ongoing basis. The Company considers its shareholders’ equity balance as capital.

Risk Factors

An investment in the Company is subject to various risks and should be considered highly speculative.

Prior to making an investment decision, investors should consider the investment risks set forth below which are in addition to the usual risks associated with an investment in a business at an early stage of development. The directors of the Company consider the risks set forth below to be the most significant, but do not consider them to be all of the risks associated with an investment in securities of the Company. If any of these risks materialize into actual events or circumstances or other possible additional risks and uncertainties of which the directors are currently unaware or which they consider not to be material in connection with the Company’s business, actually occur, the Company’s assets, liabilities, financial condition, results of operations (including future results of operations), business and business prospects, are likely to be materially and adversely affected. In such circumstances, the price of the Company’s securities could decline, and investors may lose all or part of their investment.

Upon completion of the transaction with GoldCoast, the resulting issuer pursues the business of GoldCoast, being mainly the pursuit of environmentally responsible shallow-water mineral exploration of the south coast of Ghana in the Atlantic Ocean (being the GoldCoast Project described in more detail in the section titled Business Overview and Discussion of Operations). The prospects for the Company’s success will be dependent upon the future performance and market for gold. Unlike certain entities that have the resources to develop and explore numerous mining opportunities or minerals or operate in multiple industries, the Company does not anticipate having the ability to immediately diversify or benefit from the possible spreading of risks or offsetting of losses. Furthermore, GoldCoast’s current major projects are the Ghana project. Unless GoldCoast acquires or develops additional project, it will be mainly dependent upon this project. If no additional major mineral related assets are acquired by GoldCoast, any adverse development affecting this asset would have a material adverse effect on the resulting issuer’s financial condition and results of operations.

An investment in the Company is effectively become an investment in the post-GoldCoast Amalgamation resulting issuer, should be considered highly speculative and investors may incur a loss. The post-GoldCoast Amalgamation resulting issuer and GoldCoast business is subject to several risk factors, including, but not limited to: inherent risks of mineral exploration, development, and operation activities; fluctuations in the price of gold; access to capital/liquidity; negative cash flow from operations; dependence on the GoldCoast Project; no operating history; risks of operating in Ghana; permitting and licensing risks; global financial conditions; potential impact of tariffs; rising inflation; no guarantee of positive return on investment; title to mineral properties; intense competition in mining industry; insurance risks; and environmental matters.

There is no assurance that the Company will become profitable or pay dividends

There is no assurance as to whether the Company will become profitable or pay dividends. The Company has incurred and anticipates that it will continue to incur substantial expenses relating to the development and initial operations of its business. The payment and amount of any future dividends will depend upon, among other things, the Company’s results of operations, cash flow, financial condition and operating and capital requirements. There is no assurance that future dividends will be paid, and, if dividends are paid, there is no assurance with respect to the amount of any such dividends.

Material uncertainty about the Company’s ability to continue as a going concern

The Company’s ability to continue as a going concern is dependent upon its ability to raise funding, generate revenue and achieve profitable operations and, in the meantime, to obtain the necessary financing to meet its obligations and repay its liabilities when they become due. External financing, predominantly by the issuance of equity and debt, will be sought to finance the operations of the Company; however, there can be no certainty that such funds will be available at terms acceptable to the Company, or at all.

Additional Risks related to doing Business Internationally

International markets will be a focus for expansion and revenue growth for the Company. Several factors, including legal and regulatory compliance and weakened economic conditions in any of the international jurisdictions in which the Company expects to do business or have projects, could adversely affect such expansion and growth. Additionally, the Company’s entry into new international jurisdictions requires management attention and financial resources that would otherwise be spent on other parts of the business. Some of the countries in which the Company expects to conduct business and sell products are, to some degree, subject to political, economic, and/or social instability. International business operations expose the Company to risks and expenses inherent in operating or selling products in foreign jurisdictions, and developing and emerging markets in particular, where these risks may be heightened. In addition to the risks mentioned elsewhere, these risks and expenses could have a material adverse effect on the Company’s business, results of operations or financial condition and include without limitation:

- adverse currency rate fluctuations;
- risks associated with complying with laws and regulations in the countries in which the Company expects to conduct business and sell products, and requirements to apply for and obtain licenses, permits or other approvals and the delays associated with obtaining such licenses, permits or other approvals;
- multiple, changing and often inconsistent enforcement of laws, rules and regulations;
- risks associated with reliance on international agents and representatives, including the possible failure of such agents and representatives to appropriately understand, represent and effectively market the Company’s products;
- the imposition of additional foreign governmental controls or regulations, new or enhanced trade restrictions or non-tariff barriers to trade, or restrictions on the activities of foreign agents, representatives and distributors;
- increases in taxes, tariffs, customs and duties, or costs associated with compliance with import and export licensing and other compliance requirements;
- the imposition of restrictions on trade, currency conversion or the transfer of funds or limitations;
- the imposition of Canadian and/or other international sanctions against a country, company, person or entity with whom the Company does business that would restrict or prohibit the Company's ability to hold partnerships with or indirect interests in operations in emerging markets in which the Company may have an interest;
- downward pricing pressure on the Company’s products in the international markets, due to competitive factors or otherwise;
- laws and business practices favouring local companies;
- political, social or economic unrest or instability, including without limitation military conflicts and acts of terrorism, military repression, war or civil war, social and labour unrest, organized crime, hostage-taking and violent crime;
- expropriation and nationalization and/or renegotiation or nullification of necessary licenses, approvals, permits and contracts;
- greater risk on credit terms, longer payment cycles and difficulties in enforcing agreements and collecting receivables through certain foreign legal systems; and
- the effect of disruptions caused by severe weather, natural disasters, outbreak of disease or other events that make travel to a particular region less attractive or more difficult.

Governments in certain foreign jurisdictions intervene in their economies, sometimes frequently, and occasionally make significant changes in policies and regulations. Operations may be affected in varying degrees by government regulations with respect to, but not limited to, restrictions on doing business, price controls, export controls, currency remittance, importation of product and supplies, income and other taxes, royalties, the repatriation of profits, expropriation of property, foreign investment, maintenance of concessions, licenses, approvals and permits, environmental matters, land use, land claims of local people, water use and workplace safety. Furthermore, some of the Company’s operations are conducted in parts of the world that experience illegal business and sales practices or corruption or are operated under legal systems susceptible to undue influences to some degree. Although the Company has policies and procedures in place that are designed to promote legal and regulatory compliance, the employees, business partners and consultants of the Company could take actions that violate applicable anticorruption laws or regulations. Violations of these laws, or allegations of such violations, could result in loss, reduction or expropriation and/or have a material adverse effect on the Company’s business, results of operations or financial condition. The Company’s international efforts may not produce desired levels of sales. If and when the Company enters into new markets in the future, it may experience different competitive conditions and/or different customer requirements. As a result, the Company may be less successful than expected in expanding sales in its future targeted international markets. Sales into new international markets may take longer to ramp up and reach expected sales and profit levels, or may never do so, thereby affecting the Company’s overall growth and profitability. To build brand awareness in these new markets, the Company may need to make greater investments in legal compliance, advertising and promotional activity than originally planned, which could negatively impact the expected profitability of sales in those markets. These or one or more of the other factors listed above may harm the Company’s business, results of operations or financial condition.

The Company will continue to monitor developments and policies in the emerging markets in which it will operate and assess the impact thereof to its operations, however such developments cannot be accurately predicted and could have an adverse effect on the Company’s operations or profitability.

Development of the Business of the Company

The development of the business of the Company and its ability to execute on its expansion opportunities described herein will depend, in part, upon the amount of additional financing available. Failure to obtain sufficient financing may result in delaying, scaling back, eliminating or indefinitely postponing expansion opportunities and the business of the Company’s current or future operations. There can be no assurance that additional capital or other types of financing will be available if needed or that, if available, the terms of such financing will be acceptable to the Company. In addition, there can be no assurance that future financing can be obtained without substantial dilution to existing shareholders.

Personnel

The Company has a small management team, and the loss of any key individual could affect the Company’s business. Additionally, the Company will be required to secure additional personnel to facilitate its marketing and product development initiatives. Any inability to secure and/or retain appropriate personnel may have a materially adverse impact on the business and operations of the Company.

The Continued Development of the Company and its Business will require Additional Financing

The failure to raise additional capital could result in the delay or indefinite postponement of current business objectives or the Company going out of business. There can be no assurance that additional capital or other types of financing will be available if needed or that, if available, the terms of such financing will be favourable to the Company.

If additional funds are raised through issuances of equity or convertible debt securities, existing shareholders could suffer significant dilution, and any new equity securities issued could have rights, preferences and privileges superior to those of holders of common shares

The Company’s articles permit the issuance of an unlimited number of common shares, and shareholders will have no pre-emptive rights in connection with such further issuance. The directors of the Company have discretion to determine the price and the terms of issue of further issuances. Moreover, additional common shares will be issued by the Company on the exercise of options under the Company option plan and restricted share units under the Company restricted share unit plan, and upon the exercise of the Company’s outstanding warrants. In addition, from time to time, the Company may enter into transactions to acquire assets or shares of other companies. These transactions may be financed wholly or partially with debt, which may temporarily increase the Company’s debt levels above industry standards. Any debt financing secured in the future could involve restrictive covenants relating to capital raising activities and other financial and operational matters, which may make it more difficult for the Company to obtain additional capital and to pursue business opportunities, including potential acquisitions.

Limited Market for Securities

The common shares are listed on the CSE, however, there can be no assurance that a continued active and liquid market for the common shares will be maintained.

No Operating History

Both the Company and GoldCoast are early-stage enterprises and subject to many of the risks common to early-stage enterprises, including under-capitalization, cash shortages, limitations with respect to personnel, financial, and other resources and lack of revenues.

There is no assurance that the Company will be successful in achieving a return on its investment.

Risks may include:

- risks that it may not have sufficient capital to achieve its growth strategy;
- risks that it may not develop its product and service offerings in a manner that enables it to be profitable and meet its customers’ requirements;
- risks that its growth strategy may not be successful;
- risks that fluctuations in its operating results will be significant relative to its revenues; and
- risks relating to an evolving regulatory regime.

The Company’s growth will depend substantially on its ability to address these, and the other risks described in this section. If it does not successfully address these risks, its business may be significantly harmed.

The Company’s actual financial position and results of operations may differ materially from the expectations of the Company’s management

The Company’s actual financial position and results of operations may differ materially from management’s expectations. As a result, the Company’s revenue, net income and cash flow may differ materially from the Company’s internally projected revenue, net income and cash flow. The process for estimating the Company’s revenue, net income and cash flow requires the use of judgement in determining the appropriate assumptions and estimates. These estimates and assumptions may be revised as additional information becomes available and as additional analyses are performed. In addition, the assumptions used in planning may not prove to be accurate, and other factors may affect the Company’s financial condition or results of operations.

Insurance Coverage

The Company’s business is subject to a number of risks and hazards generally, including adverse environmental conditions, accidents, product liability, infrastructure risks, litigation risks, and changes in the regulatory environment. Such occurrences could result in damage to assets, personal injury or death, environmental damage, delays in operations, monetary losses and possible legal liability. Although the Company maintains insurance to protect against certain risks in such amounts as it considers to be reasonable, its insurance does not cover all the potential risks associated with its operations. The Company may also be unable to maintain insurance to cover these risks at economically feasible premiums. Insurance coverage may not continue to be available or may not be adequate to cover any resulting liability. Moreover, insurance against risks such as environmental pollution or other hazards encountered in the operations of the Company is not generally available on acceptable terms. The Company might also become subject to liability for pollution or other hazards which may not be insured against or which the Company may elect not to insure against because of premium costs or other reasons. Losses from these events may cause the Company to incur significant costs that could have a material adverse effect upon its financial performance and results of operations.

If the Company is unable to attract and retain key personnel, it may not be able to compete effectively

The Company will depend upon its ability to attract and retain key management, including the Company’s directors, officers and technical experts. The Company will attempt to enhance its management and technical expertise by continuing to recruit qualified individuals who possess desired skills and experience in certain targeted areas. The Company’s inability to retain employees and attract and retain sufficient additional employees or engineering and technical support resources could have a material adverse effect on the Company’s business, results of operations, sales, cash flow or financial condition. Shortages in qualified personnel or the loss of key personnel could adversely affect the financial condition of the Company or results of operations of the business. The loss of any of the Company’s senior management or key employees could materially adversely affect the Company’s ability to execute the Company’s business plan and strategy, and the Company may not be able to find adequate replacements on a timely basis, or at all. The Company does not maintain key person life insurance policies on any of the Company’s employees.

No guarantee on the use of available funds by the Company

The Company cannot specify with certainty the particular uses of its available funds. Management has broad discretion in the application of its available funds. Accordingly, shareholders will have to rely upon the judgment of management with respect to the use of available funds, with only limited information concerning management’s specific intentions. The Company’s management may spend a portion or all of the available funds in ways that the Company’s shareholders might not desire, that might not yield a favourable return and that might not increase the value of a shareholder’s investment. The failure by management to apply these funds effectively could harm the Company’s business. Pending use of such funds, the Company might invest available funds in a manner that does not produce income or that loses value.

Management of Growth

The Company may be subject to growth-related risks, including capacity constraints and pressure on its internal systems and controls. The ability of the Company to manage growth effectively will require it to continue to implement and improve its operational and financial systems and to expand, train and manage its employee base. The inability of the Company to deal with this growth may have a material adverse effect on the Company’s business, financial condition, results of operations and prospects.
